Tender Buttons By Gertrude Stein (1874-1946)

The time came when there was a birthday. Every day was no excitement and a birthday was added, it was added on Monday, this made the memory clear, this which was a speech showed the chair in the middle where there was copper.

A kind of green a game in green and nothing flat nothing quite flat and more round, nothing a particular color strangely, nothing breaking the losing of no little piece.

The teasing is tender and trying and thoughtful. (Extracts from Tender Buttons)
